hello dry

This city has grown out of the desert.

Every lawn, every lush green garden, is the product of hard work

Hard work

watering, nurturing bringing beauty out of dust.

If the lawns are not loved they return to their natural dry state but as I walk down the hot street

Life finds a way through the hardship

and, judging by this street lemon, can even bear fruit.

@dorrismccomics